All three diseases are significant constraints to cattle production in sub-Saharan Africa. This Innovation Lab would have two main objectives: 1.) Aid in the research and development of innovative animal health technologies such as vaccines, pharmaceuticals, and field diagnostics and 2.) Strengthen laboratory livestock disease research capacity in local African Universities. The Animal Health Innovation Lab will be a consortium style Innovation Lab led by a US land grant University with partnerships with local Universities and research institutions in Feed the Future and/or resilience countries, The implementation instrument will be a new cooperative agreement procured through an Annual Program Statement (APS). As this cooperative agreement will be for less than $40 million, no SOAR is needed. The approved selection of instrument memo is attached in Tab 2. As described in the selection of instrument memo, an APS can be used to procure a cooperative agreement. Co-creation will allow for free discussion between USAID and the Applicant in designing the Innovation Lab, particularly the local human and institutional capacity building component.	$16,000,000	$5,700,000

Washington	7200AA21CA00015	7200AA21CA00015	USAID/ALBANIA	USAID/E&E seeks to enable digital transformation by supporting critical infrastructure owners, operators, and oversight bodies to address both immediate vulnerabilities to critical infrastructure sectors, while establishing the basis for a productive enabling environment that addresses legal, workforce, and investment gaps to support critical infrastructure resilience. This addendum focuses on critical infrastructure in the following sectors: electric/natural gas/water transmission and distribution, electric power generation, telecommunications, district heating, oil, health care, finance/banking, and transportation. CIDR Objectives In collaboration with contractual mechanisms aimed at government-level support, this activity intends to support the entities tasked with operating and overseeing critical infrastructure through the combination of regional working groups composed of sector-specific E&E critical infrastructure entities with the potential targeted bilateral support to individual countries. CIDR objectives include the following: 1.Accelerate the development of the workforce among critical infrastructure entities to protect against and respond to threats from malign actors, particularly cyberattacks. 2.Empower critical infrastructure entities in Europe and Eurasia to identify and address threats to critical infrastructure and facilitate the export of U.S. technology and expertise to counter these threats. 3.Establish the policies, frameworks, and coordination bodies necessary to empower critical infrastructure entities to protect and improve the resilience of critical infrastructure key resources. 4.Establish robust information sharing networks between national and regional critical infrastructure entities, promoting coordinated and collaborative responses to threats to critical infrastructure. 5.Improve U.S. security through application of lessons learned from this USAID-	$29,997,925	$29,136,415

Washington	7200AA21CA00017	7200AA21CA00017	ASIA/TS	The purpose of this activity is to improve linear and other infrastructure safeguards necessary to prevent continued ecosystem degradation, especially biodiversity loss, that gravely threatens a healthy and climate-resilient future. USAID will build capacity and partnerships across sectors to implement environmental and social safeguards that help protect natural resources, address the climate crisis and bolster economic growth. The Indo-Pacific region is home to some of the worldâ€™s most abundant biodiversity and is rich in natural resources like energy, water, land, and clean airâ€"all vital for countriesâ€™ long-term growth. Without strong safeguards, high demand leads to irresponsible development. USAID aims to strengthen safeguards in the region to protect Asiaâ€™s natural resources and biodiversity against over-exploitation, mitigate climate change by reducing forest loss by: (1) working towards adoption and enforcement of laws, policies, regulatory frameworks and standards; and (2) implementing conservation and sustainable practices, businesses, and trade and investment. These outcomes contribute to resilience to shocks including pandemics, climate change or other natural disasters and improved conservation of biodiversity. Effective safeguards protect people and the environment from harm; avoid or mitigate impacts on people and the environment; and are adaptive measures against climate change. The Asia Bureau will collaborate with related programs, including those of ADB, World Bank Group (WB), the private sector and others, to ensure long-term sustainability of development efforts. Washington	7200AA21H00001	7200AA21H00001	M/OAA/FOROPS	USAIDâ€™s is currently traversing the difficult challenge of being largely dependent on A&A mechanisms but having only about 60% of the trained and fully operational FSCOs required to operate in substantial compliance with law and policy. Meeting this challenge successfully depends on rebuilding leadership in the backstop. Our existing relationship with the Federal Executive Institute, a USAID approved vendor, is the starting point. The training will be modelled/inspired existing training, but redesigned to be specifically responsive to the current needs of FSCOs. By tailoring leadership courses for BS-93, we will equip Foreign Service Contract/Agreement Officers with the practical tools that they need to effectively thrive as solution-oriented business advisers and leaders in the agency.	$2,104,853	$2,104,853

Washington	7200AA21LA00004	7200AA21LA00004	IPI	Asia Religious and Ethnic Freedom (Asia REF) The approach of Asia REF incorporates adaptive management and flexible programming of award funding to support local organizations promoting the recognition of religious freedoms in to-be-identified countries throughout the Asia-Pacific region. The goal of the Asia REF award is to expand international religious freedom by working with local and locally-established partners across Asia. Freedom House proposes that Consortium partners pursue this goal via three objectives. Under these objectives, projects and a learning agenda will be created iteratively with HRSM partners, USAID Missions, technical advisors from USAID/Washington, and local partners. The objectives are: 1.Support targeted in-country and cross-border efforts by local partners (both local entities and locally established partners per current ADS 303 definitions) to expand the freedom of religion and conscience in Asia; 2.Promote the international religious freedom of Chinaâ€™s minority diaspora populations located in nearby or neighboring countries that have been subject to human rights violations (such as, but not limited to, Uyghur, Tibetan, and Christian communities); 3.Improve local community partners, including religious and ethnic minority community partners, capacities to a) advance freedom of religion and conscience within their countries, b) address immediate capacity needs, and c) develop and access increasing resources to address self-reliance deficits.	$25,000,000	$16,000,000

Washington	7200AA22GR00001	7200AA22GR00001	DRG	Ensuring the viability of public interest media is central to the aim of USAIDâ€™s Democracy, Human Rights, and Governance Strategy to support the consolidation of inclusive and accountable democracies to advance freedom, dignity, and development. At the December 2021 Summit for Democracy, the U.S. Government will announce several marquee deliverables to support democracy worldwide, including a deliverable to support independent media and the free flow of information. To that end, the USG will be making a substantial investment, via a grant assistance award, to a new International Fund for Public Interest Media, a sponsored project of Rockefeller Philanthropy Advisors. The three main aims of the International Fund for Public Interest Media are to: Increase the resources available to support independent public interest media in low and middle income countries Deploy those resources effectively to both sustain public interest journalism institutions whilst ensuring maximum other revenue is generated and the markets are not distorted Develop or contribute to the development of systemic solutions to the current business model challenge by deploying financial, political and knowledge capital	$20,000,000	$20,000,000

Washington	7200AA22LA00002	7200AA22LA00002	IPI	The purpose of the Transform Digital Spaces to Reflect Feminist Democratic Principles (Transform) Activity is to provide assistance for the piloting of practical TFGBV prevention, response, and risk mitigation activities. Pilot activity outcomes and learnings will be integrated to improve understanding of how TFGBV manifests in a broad variety of local contexts and what strategies can be used to address this global problem. This form of violence is on the rise as the use of digital technologies becomes increasingly ubiquitous globally, including in the communities that receive foreign assistance. There are many different forms of TFGBV, including gendered disinformation, and can be used as a tool of repression aimed at controlling or limiting womenâ€™s and marginalized groupsâ€™ participation online, as well as in politics and public life, thereby undermining human rights and democracy. Practical solutions in this activity will include, but not be limited to, programming to improve womenâ€™s participation in politics and public life by addressing TFGBV against highly targeted populations such as politicians, journalists, and activists who are women and/or have an intersecting marginalized identity.	$6,000,000	$6,000,000

Washington	7200AA22LE00003	7200AA22LE00003	REFS	The purpose of the new Soybean Value Chain Research (SVCR) Innovation Lab (IL) is to facilitate the development and dissemination of evidence-based technologies and practices for widespread adoption and build the capacity of public-private partners across soy market systems in Sub-Saharan Africa (SSA). Soybean produced by African countries is 1% of the total world production and the domestic need for food and feed is met by importing over four million metric tons (MT) of soybean grain and its products. Soybean grain yield (around 1 MT/ha) is 39% lower than world average and 68% lower than that of the USA. Constraints that contribute to such low yields are a) biotic and abiotic stresses, b) narrow germplasm adapted to tropical environments, c) limited access to quality seeds for farmers including financing, d) inadequate agronomic practices, e) absence of small-scale farm mechanization, and f) inadequate market linkages. Key results or outcomes expected are: a) soy breeding programs of National Agriculture Research Systems (NARS) and CGIAR in SSA modernized and use new tools and methods to resolve biotic and abiotic stresses, b) improved soybean varieties with enhanced grain yield (genetic gain) developed and deployed, c) improved soy management practices developed and input bundling for different production systems generated, d) affordable small-scale farm mechanization, e) enhanced soy utilization for food and feed, f) economic impact of soybean known for selected FTF countries, and g) Soy public-private research for development (R4D) networks strengthened. This Program is designed to identify and launch a new Feed the Future Innovation Lab focused on soybean value chain research and capacity development at the smallholder and food-feed systems levels. Washington	7200AA23GR00003	7200AA23GR00003	DRG	The Extractive Industries Transparency Initiative (EITI) is a voluntary, global partnership between governments, extractive industry companies, and civil society aimed at promoting the transparent and accountable management of oil, gas and mineral resources. All implementing countries must adhere to the EITI Standard, which requires disclosure of mining exploration and production data; disclosure and reconciliation of all extractive revenues collected and paid; and oversight of EITI implementation by a formal multi-stakeholder group (MSG) involving the government, private sector, and civil society. At the country level, national EITI secretariats are tasked with implementation, reporting, and accountability to the MSG. At the international level, the EITI Secretariat (Secretariat) manages the overall EITI initiative, coordinating work with member countries, civil society, and supporting companies, and providing targeted technical assistance and support for peer learning. The Secretariat conducts all country validations, through which countries are assessed and held accountable for adherence to the EITI Standard, and plays a critical role in ensuring the success, transparency, and accountability of the overall initiative. In line with both the U.S. Strategy and the USAID Anti-Corruption Policy, the Countering Corruption in the Extractive Sector Activity will expand and enhance EITI implementation at the country level in order to counter corruption, including by supporting countries in meeting the requirements of the updated 2023 EITI Standard - which includes new efforts to address corruption risks in the energy transition - and by supporting greater uptake and progress on key priorities in the fight against transnational corruption, including enhancing systematic disclosures of data, increasing transparency of contracts, and supporting uptake of beneficial ownership transparency in the sector. Activities will complement and feed into global efforts led by the United States to advance the priorities of the U.S. government co-led Financial Transparency and Integrity (FTI) Summit for Democracy Cohort, including by advancing beneficial ownership transparency in a critical mass of countries through EITI's Opening Extractives program.	$1,750,000	$1,750,000

Washington	7200AA23GR00004	7200AA23GR00004	DRG	As noted in the 2021 U.S. Strategy on Countering Corruption, the United States remains committed to strengthening the international architecture in which multilateral initiatives, agreements, and standards magnify and give legitimacy to anti-corruption efforts around the world. The U.S. Strategy commits the United States to redoubling efforts in multilateral fora to push for anti-corruption measures, and to reinvigorating U.S. participation in the Open Government Partnership (OGP). USAIDâ€™s first-ever Anti-Corruption Policy, published in December 2022, committed the Agency to â€œcontinue championing the Open Government Partnership (OGP) as a vehicle for developing locally owned commitments, including by encouraging the accession of new countries to OGP and deepening OGP implementation in target countriesâ€. This includes continuing to accelerate action on countering corruption using the OGP process, a priority that has grown only more important in the context of the Summit for Democracy (S4D), where a range of priority anti-corruption reforms were identified by the U.S. Government-led Summit for Democracy Financial Transparency and Integrity (FTI) Cohort as primed for uptake through OGP National Action Plans. In line with FTI priorities and the U.S. Strategy, this activity to expand and enhance OGP implementation at the country level , in particular to accelerate action against corruption. In summary, the program will support USAIDâ€™s efforts to address contemporary corruption threats to keep pace with the drivers, enablers, and manifestations of corruption today, especially transnational corruption; support countering corruption across sectors and from multiple angles, particularly during pivotal windows of opportunity for anti-corruption reform; and bolster USAIDâ€™s ability to forge new partnerships and coalitions to spur and sustain anti-corruption progress. Activities will complement and feed into global efforts led by the United States to advance the priorities of the FTI Cohort, including by advancing beneficial ownership transparency and accountable public procurement, and addressing corruption enablers in a critical mass of countries. This Activity will also ensure effective action and follow-up to broader country commitments made at the Summit for Democracy, including through linkages to the OGP platform, and will galvanize bold, multi stakeholder open government reform through the OGP platform	$2,000,000	$2,000,000

Washington	7200AA24F50034	7200AA24F50034	IPI	The purpose of this activity Request to obligated up to $601,517.60 in Fiscal Year (FY) 2024 Operating Expenses to support the Office of the Chief Economist (OCE) execution of training and events through a Call Order under World Wide Training Services (WWTS). The funding described in the request would fund a Call Order to the World Wide Training Services, a contract held by EnCompass (Contract # 7200AA22A00006). The Call Order will provide services to support OCEâ€™s execution of Training for Cost-Effectiveness. Depending on final details of the training arrangement and cost, additional support may be possible for events such as an online version of the Cost-Effectiveness Training, Economist Revitalization Training, and/or an OCE Planning Retreat The decision to use the WWTS mechanism followed a series of deliberations considering other potential buy-in mechanisms such as Innovative Design, Execution and Acceleration Services (IDEAS) and Private Sector Engagement Modernization Contract (PSEMC). With the Approval of OCE Leadership, the REQ has been amended to add additional obligation of FY24 OE to WWTS up to the â€œNew Obligation Totalâ€ of $601,517.60. On July 19, 2024, you approved the Action Memo and Pre-Obligation Checklist for WWTS (Tab 1). The POC obligated $385,668.04 in FY 24 OE funds. This increases that approved amount from $385,668.04 to the amount noted in the table above. The change is the result of 1) a decision not to pursue an additional OE funded ISC staff person; 2) savings on the travel budget; and 3) other OE budgets which allowed funds to be transferred to previously identified needs for Agency-wide training that were not yet funded. This memo changes no other elements of the previously approved Action Memo and Pre-Obligation Checklist of $385,668.04. The new amount is $601,517.60, an increase of $215,849.56.	$2,000,000	$601,518

Sub-award Program: The PAVES project will develop and manage a program of sub-awards to bring in new organizations, test innovative approaches to use volunteers, draw from non-traditional sources of volunteers, address targeted agricultural sector problems, and develop capacity of organizations to effectively implement agricultural sector volunteer programs. This program is designed to enable additional organizations and volunteers to participate in the F2F Program and provide valuable cross-fertilization and learning in volunteer program management and implementation. Knowledge Management Support: The program of knowledge management should support learning from PAVES activities to improve sub-awardee programs and potential for continuing with future agricultural volunteer activities. Activities may involve: a) specialized technical assistance to define, document, and disseminate best practice lessons in volunteer programs; b) organizing workshops and events for F2F staff and stakeholders; c) outreach activities; and d) evaluating volunteer programs and projects. Management of communications materials, websites, F2F social media, and related tasks are part of this component. Washington	7200AA24P00052	7200AA24P00052	M/MS	The existing carpeting in most areas of the Ronald Reagan Building (floors B1, B2, B3 and 2 - 9) require periodic cleaning due to normal usage and spillage of food and drinks. This issue has resulted in multiple calls to the building contracted cleaners and carpet companies more often than wanted. We have put in place a comprehensive proactive carpet cleaning plan to ensure the spaces are kept in the upmost conditions. While funding requests for carpet cleaning increased, the carpet's appearance and odor(s) have not improved with these standard periodic spot cleanings. There have been several walk-throughs conducted to identify and confirm that a more extensive cleaning program is necessary to help prevent mold and mildew growth, remove deep-seated pollutants, restore the appearance of carpets, and possibly extend the life of the carpet, therefore decreasing long-term expenses. Approval is requested to have the RRB carpet steam cleaned bi-annually (twice a year) to improve appearance and remove odors.	$145,549	$145,549

Services include the development of a customized trauma-informed investigations training program for USAID personnel as well as training and credentialing support for USAID personnel providing support to individuals impacted by sexual misconduct. This action will support goals outlined in the USAIDâ€™s Three-Year Plan for Preventing and Responding to Sexual Misconduct and Workplace Violence, as well as new requirements included in Automated Directives System 113, Preventing and Addressing Sexual Misconduct, which states: USAID staff responsible for conducting inquiries or investigations into sexual misconduct will complete mandatory training related to empathic and/or trauma-informed investigative practices on a recurring basis, not to exceed 3 years between successive trainings, to ensure that personnel remain well-prepared and up-to-date in addressing the complexities of sexual misconduct cases while placing importance on the well-being of all involved parties, with a particular focus on reducing potential harm or re-traumatization for impacted persons while maintaining the integrity of the investigation. Such training may include content related to concepts such as: informed consent and empowerment, psychological safety, privacy and confidentiality, empathy, self-awareness, personal self-care, and resilience. SPECIFIC TO THE REQUIREMENT: USAID intends to procure support services to advance efforts to prevent and effectively respond to sexual misconduct while providing trauma-informed investigations and	$28,600	$28,600

The PAPA will provide an efficient mechanism for the USFS to support USAID/Tajikistan to advance Mission objectives related to improving natural resource management, combating land degradation, promoting watershed health and conservation, protecting food security, supporting ecosystem adaptation and resilience, as well as adaptation to natural hazards and disaster risk reduction. The PAPA will serve as a vehicle through which USAID/Tajikistan can engage the unique technical expertise and capabilities of USFS/IP germane to Mission priorities outlined above. To implement the PAPA, USFS/IP will provide technical assistance and perform inherently governmental functions to advance the objectives and priority areas of technical cooperation identified in this document. In so doing the PAPA will support priority USG assistance objectives as established within USAID/Tajikistanâ€™s Strategic Framework (SF), Tajikistanâ€™s Integrated Country Strategy (ICS), United States Strategy for Central Asia 2019-2025 (C5+1), and USAID/Tajikistanâ€™s Feed the Future Program.	$5,000,000	$3,440,000

Overseas	72012119P00028	72012119P00028	USAID	While USAIDâ€™s Regional Mission in Ukraine (USAID/Ukraine) relies on its own translation team to handle its routine translation and interpretation needs, the volume of these assignments varies greatly from day to day, and may not always be expeditiously addressed due to both time and capacity constraints. With these considerations in mind, USAID/Ukraine plans to continue using services of external vendors to tackle this â€œoverflowâ€ of translation and interpretation work at a level of quality that should meet the expectations of its internal customers. The two vendors that USAID/Ukraine has used for that purpose in the recent years have been: Mr. Dmytro Shkryoba, a freelance interpreter/translator; and TRIS translation agency. Having monitored their performance during that time (also using feedback from internal Mission customers), our conclusion is that both vendors have performed their assignments successfully. In the last two weeks, together with the Senior Procurement Agent here at the Mission, we have done market research using quotes from several local providers of translation/interpretation services to see if the rates that the current vendors are offering to continue their work for USAID/Ukraine are competitive on the local market. Based on the analysis, and on the knowledge of their past performance, it appears that the two current vendors are offering the best value for the money that the Mission is willing to expend on these services. Therefore, I would recommend that the contracts with both Mr. Shkryoba and TRIS be renewed or extended, as the case may be, using the rates they are offering for the new/extended contract period.	$54,713	$48,192

This Activity will improve institutional frameworks and processes in select sectors to ensure they align with legal requirements and international best practice (both existing and new that might be advanced through implementation) for the inclusion of women. It will also support communities to develop the necessary tools to promote womenâ€™s inclusion in activities outside the home; build the capacity and confidence of individual women by engaging institutions of higher education and civil society; develop male allies, political structures, and the private sector; and strengthen public awareness and advocacy around womenâ€™s issues, including gender-based violence (GBV). The Activity acknowledges the pervasiveness of gender-based violence, and the Activity will field interventions that challenge the status quo in a manner fully complementary of existing U.S. funded interventions on the topic, including awareness raising, gender-based violence in the workplace, behavior change, and economic empowerment for women survivors. The goal of this Activity is to contribute to womenâ€™s empowerment in the West Bank and Gaza by increasing women's access to leadership opportunities and enhancing the enabling environment to be more receptive for women's participation in civic, political, and economic decision making.	$35,000,000	$18,947,008

The geographic areas of work includes three forest protected areas (PAs) (Himchari National Park, Medakachhapia National Park and Fasiakhali Wildlife Sanctuary) and two Ecologically Critical Areas (ECAs) (Coxâ€™s Bazar-Teknaf Peninsula and Sonadia Island), covering an approximate area of 18,807 ha. This activity will target 3,000 natural resource dependent households. Additionally, reforestation, assisted natural regeneration, and rehabilitation of degraded hill streams are planned under this activity. Homestead, institutional, and roadside plantations are also envisioned. To promote alternative income generating activities, this activity will facilitate group savings and micro grants; provide skill development training; and arrange backstopping and input support through developing local service providers. Promotion of alternative cooking fuels will be done through a varied subsidy scheme to reduce fuelwood demand. Capacity building of the relevant stakeholders (e.g., CMOs, BFD, and Union Parishad) will be the cornerstone under this activity aiming to enhance resource mobilization capacity for conservation actions and sustainability.	$3,999,979	$3,999,979
Overseas	72038820FA00002	72038820FA00002	USAID/BANGLADESH	Greening Environment through Livelihood Improvement and Forest Enrichment(GREEN LIFE).The activity will be implemented in Ukhia Upazila of Coxâ€™s Bazar district.This activity will strengthen the co-management organizations (CMOs) of the Inani National Park (2,200 ha) and provide livelihood development support to 1,800 households. Using the farmer field school (FFS) approach, the selected beneficiaries will be provided with technical skills training on improving farming practices. They will also be provided with critical input support and cash grants to their Revolving Loan Fund (RLF). The activity will build capacity of the co-management organizations as well as the local staff of the Bangladesh Forest Department (BFD). To reduce the use of firewood, the activity will promote a supply chain of alternative fuel solutions such as liquefied petroleum gas (LPG) and retained heat cookers (RHCs) at the household level. For bulk users like restaurants and orphanages, it will share the cost of customized improved cook-stoves (ICS). It will also test a locally fabricated simple burner (kero-gas burner). In addition, the activity will distribute seedlings of fast growing and high biomass yielding fuel wood tree species among the local communities. The activity will also promote the production of endangered native tree species of the region by providing training to private nursery owners of Coxâ€™s Bazar district. In addition to building organizational development and management capacities of CMOs in Ukhia, the activity will enhance the capacity of the applicant in two important areas: (a) fundraising and (b) advanced applications of geo-spatial technologies. This capacity development will help the applicant to sustain its operations and to contribute towards forest and biodiversity conservation in Bangladesh.	$3,999,718	$3,999,718

The Activity will accomplish this result through two specific objectives: 1) strengthened public sector systems for oversight and coordination of social behavior change (SBC) at the national and provincial levels; and 2) improved ability of individuals to adopt healthy behaviors. USAID anticipates that the Activity will work primarily in the areas of maternal and child health (MCH), tuberculosis (TB), and malaria with attention to other health areas, such as family planning, nutrition, water and sanitation (WASH), or other development sectors as possible, per availability of funds. Subject to further funding being made available, USAID/Cambodia may support expansion of the Activity to include other prioritized SBC interventions or other priority geographic regions. The Activity will also align closely with separate malaria and child protection SBC activities.	$16,297,937	$16,297,937

Overseas	72048220C00001	72048220C00001	USAID/BURMA	The primary dual objectives of the activity are (1) to facilitate fair and responsible trade and investment between Burma, the U.S., and its regional partners in goods and services, and (2) to improve domestic corporate governance, business transparency and competitiveness of firms operating in or entering the market in Burma. RITA also includes two cross-cutting performance objectives that reinforce the two objectives above, but that also stand as objectives on their own. They are (1) to promote economic integration, investment and trade in economically marginalized states and regions of Burma, and (2) to empower women to participate more in the economy, particularly in the promotion of responsible investment and trade in goods and services.	$18,730,499	$18,730,499
Overseas	72048220C00002	72048220C00002	USAID/BURMA	The United States Agency for International Development s Investing in Independent Media (IIM) aims to ensure the viability of independent media as a critical element of Myanmar s emerging democracy. The Activity will support public interest journalism created by local and national media houses and independent journalists. The activity recognizes that there is not yet a sufficiently mature business environment for the media to operate independently while continuing to report news that holds political and economic elites accountable. The availability of news and information is a key piece of countering disinformation and misinformation in Myanmar. The performance objectives of the activity are to (1) Increase research and analysis for use by, and about the media sector and business environment, for the primary use and benefit of decision making by media operations (2) Alleviate political, financial, and legal pressures on media houses and journalists that publish news and investigative reports (3) Increase financial independence and viability of local and national media. IIM will expand on USAID Burmaâ€™s current and past investments in the media sector, while working closely to align activities with other donor support that follow similar priorities. IIM will be managed by USAID Burma s Office for Democracy, Governance, and Humanitarian Assistance (DGHA) as part of a broader portfolio supporting democracy, governance, conflict mitigation, and resilience activities designed to protect human rights, advance the democratic transition, and support peace in Myanmar.	$20,651,095	$20,651,095

PIOs	72052121IO00002	72052121IO00002	USAID/HAITI	Since the end of August 2021, there are thousands of Haitians assembling in makeshift sites on the Mexican side of the border to wait while deciding whether to attempt entry into the U.S. Carrying their belongings, the migrants have been traversing the ankle-deep river between Mexico and Texas. As of 17 September, there were about 13,700 new arrivals in Del Rio city. While repatriations of Haitian migrants from the U.S. to Haiti had been paused after the devastating earthquake on 14 August, this sudden surge in migrant crossings over the past weeks has prompted it to change course. IOM aims to support the improvement of reception facilities to better welcome migrants upon their return to Haiti, both in Port-au-Prince and Cap-Haitian. This will enable key stakeholders involved in migrantsâ€™ assistance to be prepared for repatriations and stand ready to welcome migrants even when informed in a very short notice.	$40,000,000	$19,800,000

The activities to generate additional income include the following: Three one-day workshops to explain what a forest carbon project is, the benefits and costs, and the process. Support communities to define how payments will be distributed. Training for community members who will carry out the inventories, led by experienced technical leaders. A baseline inventory to measure how many tons of CO2 forests are currently capturing and their potential for additional sequestration. This baseline activity can take up to three months per community. One month a year throughout the life of the activity will be dedicated to monitoring the plots. As the communities need to collect seeds, plant their own trees and then reforest the plots on an ongoing basis, nurseries will be built to ensure the sustainability of the project. An external verification agency will be hired to certify that the information collected in each community is correct; this activity can take up to a month. Once verified, the community can get additional income. There is an initial verification after the baseline inventory is completed, and this is followed by verifications after one year and after ten years.	$4,075,000	$4,075,000

Overseas	72063624FA00002	72063624FA00002	USAID/GUI-SL	The purpose of the Catalyzing Investment for Small Businesses (CISB) activity is to provide affordable access to finance and business advisory services to qualified small and medium enterprises (SMEs) and to attract impact investors to Sierra Leone. Once impact investors enter the Sierra Leone market the network will continue to grow. At the same time, as SMEs receive access to finance they will learn through the business advisory services and due diligence process how to be an investable business. In effect, CISB will not only mobilize investment in SMEs, but in addition, provide proof of concept (i.e. pilot) that Sierra Leone SMEs are profitable investments for impact investors. The long-term development goal post activity is to have this initial cycle of investment demonstrate to local banks that SMEs are investable at affordable rates thereby reducing the need for future impact investing and donor support. SME access to finance is a key development challenge that is highlighted in the U.S. Embassyâ€™s Integrated Country Strategy (ICS), the government of Sierra Leone Medium Term National Development Plan (MTNDP), the Ministry of Agriculture National Agricultural Transformation Programme (NATP) and the Bank of Sierra Leone's National Strategy for Financial Inclusion (NSFI). The CISB activity partner, Pangea Global Ventures, is the private sector entity that will implement the project. The total project value is $3,000,000 with $2,500,000 coming from private sector partners (in the form of equity, loans, and in-kind contribution) and $500,000 from USAID. Overseas	72063624FA00003	72063624FA00003	USAID/GUI-SL	The BenniMix activity aims to address the interrelated problems of food insecurity, malnutrition, low agricultural productivity, and overreliance on imported foods in Sierra Leone. The program's underlying theory is that strengthening the capacity and productivity of smallholder farmers and the private sector partner will increase the supply of nutritious affordable foods to local markets. It is expected that providing 70 smallholder farmer groups with training, tools, credit, and technical assistance will enable them to adopt sustainable practices and increase yields of nutritious crops like sorghum, legumes, and orange-fleshed sweet potatoes. This will strengthen BFC's local supply chain, increasing annual raw material sourcing by 300MT (metric tons) by Year 3. With 43% more local sourcing, BFC can produce 600MT of nutritious blended foods annually, reducing costly imports by an estimated $3.6 - $4.8 million by year 3. Increased productivity and access to credit, assets, and markets is expected to raise smallholder farmer incomes by $20,000 - $30,000 per farmer group, per annum, improving their livelihoods hence access to essential products and services such as food, health, transportation, and education. Locally produced, nutritious foods will become more available helping reduce malnutrition, especially in children. 27,000 malnourished school children under five are expected to receive supplementary feeding per annum. Any potential excess product can be exported within the ECOWAS region, generating foreign exchange for the local economy. The program's market-based approach will empower BFC to coordinate implementation and provide training, processing, and market linkages. Success will be driven by effective collaboration between BFC and smallholder groups and the adoption of new practices and technologies. Sustained impact requires BFC reaching profitability and smallholders maintaining increased productivity after the program ends. Overseas	72065621CA00003	72065621CA00003	USAID/MOZAMBIQUE	The Niassa Special Reserve (NSR) in northern Mozambique is one of the last great wilderness areas on Earth (Baghai 2018). This vast Miombo woodland landscape--measuring 42,000 kmÂ² or roughly the size of Switzerland--represents 36 percent of Mozambiqueâ€™s conservation area (CA) network. The NSR is one of the largest and most important protected areas in Africa (Allan 2017). While Niassa is famous for its indigenous African elephant, lion and wild dog populations, its natural capital includes immense inselbergs, water resources, and forest carbon values. Large, well-managed protected areas such as the NSR are vital to restoring the viability of dwindling elephant and lion populations. Countering threats to the globally significant biological diversity of the NSR has been the focus of various U.S. Government (State Department, USAID, and US Fish and Wildlife Agency) programs of support since the 1990s. Beginning in 2015, USAID partnered with the Government of the Republic of Mozambique (GRM) National Administration for Conservation Areas (ANAC), the World Conservation Society (WCS), and two private NSR concessionaires (Luwire Wildlife Conservancy and Chuilexi Conservancy) to implement USAIDâ€™s Alliance for Ecosystem Conservation Systems, Markets, and Tourism (ECOSMART) activity. Through a Global Development Alliance (GDA) cooperative agreement with WCS, USAID has invested $14.8 million to conserve biodiversity and sustainably manage the natural resources of NSR, enhance the social and economic well-being of Niassaâ€™s resident communities, and strengthen the national CA system. USAID/Mozambique is requesting a full application for a five-year, $10 million program to strengthen NSR-WCS co-management, NSR concessionaire coordination and compliance, law enforcement, and community conservation and community-based natural resources management (CBNRM) in the NSR and surrounding areas. Specifically, this award will respond to CDCS Development Objective 3(DO3) : resilience of vulnerable populations to key shocks increased with a focus on Intermediate Results 3.5. â€œTargeted communities better prepared for natural disasters)â€. The current Activity will also be aligned to the USAID Climate Strategy 2022-2030 that recognizes that the negative effects of climate change disproportionately affect women, youth, Indigenous Peoples, persons with disabilities, and other marginalized and underrepresented groups. Restrictive gender and social norms limit access to opportunities, rights, and resources that contribute to resilience, including representation in climate decision-making bodies. Recognizing the contributions of these groups and empowering them to lead climate action is fundamental to combating climate change. Overseas	72066021CA00004	72066021CA00004	USAID/DROC	P-DEC will pursue the following objectives under the program goal: 1. Build community resilience to conflict and crisis 2. Foster accountable, trusted, citizen-responsive institutions, addressing grievances before they lead to violence 3. Promote inclusive, diversified economic growth To achieve these objectives, USAID will adopt innovative, cross-sectoral, stabilization responses that emphasize support to local institutions, including decentralized territorial entities, civil society and community-based organizations, and the private sector. It envisions a sustained United States Government (USG) commitment in order to establish the conditions necessary for political solutions that will enable peace to take root. P-DEC was originally conceived as an Annual Program Statement (APS) and retains much of that openness to innovative ideas, new partnerships, and collaborative approaches. It does not attempt to narrowly define the security problems confronting eastern Congo or propose fixed solutions. USAID/DRC would create opportunities for collaboration and integration through the application process in part by leading a P-DEC pre-application conference. USAID/DRC developed its approach through a consultative process involving every development sector at the Mission, the Africa Bureau, the DRC Disaster Assistance Response Team (DART), and 28 partner organizations through a Request for Information (RFI). The Request for Applications (RFA) incorporates this data and adapts and scales approaches from USAID/Mozambique, which is leveraging the unique capabilities of protected landscapes to spur development and resolve conflict. The consultative process resulted in three categories of interventions that potential applicants could draw from to propose integrated interventions: Build community resilience to conflict and crisis. The primary goals of these projects are to mitigate the impacts of climate change, protect critical biodiversity, and enhance the livelihoods of local communities. Blueâ€™s first project in Sierra Leone was recently published as a Pipeline Listing on Verraâ€™s Verified Carbon Standards (VCS) Registry in August 2023 and can be found here. General background information and countriesâ€™ context: According to the USAID - Forest Carbon, Markets and Communities (FCMC) project, mangroves in West Africa represent 13% of mangrove forests worldwide and cover more than 2.4 million hectares across 19 countries. However, the region has experienced a rapid loss of its mangrove cover at a rate of 1.7% per year. At the same time, coastal communities in West Africa face high poverty levels, inequality, food insecurity, and vulnerability to the impacts of climate change such as sea level rise and coastal erosion. Women in particular face increased economic and social marginalization and climate vulnerability. Blueâ€™s project areas are home to traditional fishing communities that have turned to mangrove cutting as a way to make income due to depleted fish stocks from foreign trawlers. Mangrove forests in Sierra Leone and Guinea are being deforested due to community members selling mangrove wood or using it for preserving fish through smoking, fuel for cooking, construction purposes, or other uses. Further, mangroves play an essential role as nursery areas for fish and shellfish, which contribute more than $400 million annually to the regional economy. Mangrove forests are also important for stabilizing the shoreline and buffering communities against the impacts of storms and sea level rise. Guinea Guineaâ€™s continental shelf extends 300 km, covering a 47,400 km2 area dotted by inlets, tidal marshes, estuaries, and numerous offshore islands. Mangrove areas, which extend along most of the coast and up to 40 km inland, remain large and biodiverse, but	$1,500,000	$831,493

This ambitious goal will be achieved by focusing on building coalitions for reform that both demand government action to address key sectoral constraints and create mechanisms to hold the government accountable (demand side). At the same time, this activity will provide targeted assistance to national institutions willing and able to champion reform supported by civil society (supply). The demand and supply-side efforts will be bridged via the creation of mechanisms and spaces for multi-stakeholder, policy dialogue. These approaches will be coupled with intensive donor coordination to catalyze critical policy reforms relevant to the successful implementation of major USAID development interventions. This Program Description reflects USAIDâ€™s commitment to local ownership and self-reliance by incorporating direct input from the National Political Dialogue, the Direction GÃ©nÃ©rale des Elections within the Ministry of Interior, civil society, and other donors. It builds on past USAID electoral assistance for the 2019 presidential elections, the 2019 DRG Assessment, and USAIDâ€™s recent audit of the voter registry. This activity will support the Missionâ€™s Development Objective (DO) 3 in the current Country Development Cooperation Strategy (CDCS): Increased GOS Effectiveness and Accountability. Under DO 3, USAID aims to support the Government of Senegal (GOS) so it is more effective and accountable, and strengthen civil society so that the Senegalese people can more effectively articulate their needs and advocate for themselves. The development hypothesis is that IF the GOS improves the political, economic, and judicial governance environment, IF civil society and media influence increases, and IF local governance and community engagement is more inclusive, THEN the countryâ€™s political and social stability will be strengthened, resulting in the more efficient management of public resources toward improved service delivery, and a citizen-centric approach to governance.	$10,851,354	$10,851,354

The commissioners and the CENI staff will encounter unprecedented challenges in the transition, including organizing elections in large swathes of the country that are insecure; carrying out new legislation to ensure the participation of internally displaced persons (IDPs), a population that has surged to 1.7 million in just five years; and an ambitious transition agenda and timeline, which in turn create challenges for citizen and civil society engagement. Additionally, there has been a drastic increase in disinformation circulating in the country, much of it originating from foreign influence campaigns aimed at influencing public opinion in the Sahel. Disinformation has been linked to massive protests and related violence. Broad civic participation by an informed populace will be critical for the credibility of the transition to civilian rule. Likewise, civil society and political parties will need to be active in consensus-building around constitutional and legal reform efforts. Additionally, an anticipated significant turnover of elected representatives will need support to demonstrate the benefits of democracy in the early stages of the new civilian government. Objective 1: Civil society supports increased citizen participation in reform, electoral, and governance processes. Objective 2: Electoral Management Bodies conduct technically sound and inclusive electoral processes. Objective 3: Post-transition governance is effective, participatory, and inclusive.	$7,000,000	$3,880,026
